I knew a little girl
And she was born in the ghetto

I knew her so well She had stories to tell

A mother and a fatherless child And she was always running wild

She danced for all the men Every night in the caravan

She was a mother and a fatherless child And she was always running wild Sahara! Sahara!

I knew a little girl And she was born in the ghetto

I knew her so well She had stories to tell

A mother and a fatherless child And she was always running wild

She danced for all the men Every night in the caravan

She was a mother and fatherless child Always running wild

Sahara! Sahara! Sahara! Sahara!

I knew a little girl
And she was born in the ghetto

I knew her so well She had stories to tell

A mother and a fatherless child And she was always running wild

She danced for all the men Every night in the caravan

She was a mother and a fatherless child Always running wild

Sahara! Sahara!
