

I'll Do Everything

Lazlo Bane

I've fought myself one of
One of those late night machines
It'll slice your life to pieces
Then it will glue it back again
It does everything

You say you'll do your part
But I do not know what this means
I must have lost my shame
I end up doing everything

I'll do everything
Everything
I'll do everything

I try to understand
When I don't to uderstand a thing
I tried to learn from God
'Cause he knows not to make a scene
When he does everything

When I need someone to lean on
Fabricate you in another song
Even if you break my soul
My glue, it fixes everything

I'll do everything
Everything
I'll do everything
