You Wanted a Hit

LCD Soundsystem

You wanted a hit
But maybe we don't do hits
I try and try
It ends up feeling kind of wrong

You wanted it tough But is it ever tough enough? No, nothing's ever tough enough Until we hit the road

Yeah, you wanted it lush But honestly you must hush No honestly you know too much So leave us, leave us on our own

And so you wanted a hit Well, this is how we do hits You wanted the hit But that's not what we do

You wanted it real But can you tell me what's real? There's lights and sounds and stories Music's just a part

Yeah, you wanted the truth And then you said you want proof I guess you're used to liars Saying what they want

And we won't be your babies anymore
We won't be your babies
We won't be your babies
'Til you take us home

No, we won't be your babies anymore We won't be your babies anymore We can't be your babies
'Til you take us home

Yeah, you wanted it smart
But honestly I'm not smart
No, honestly we're never smart
We fake it, fake it all the time

Yeah, you wanted the time
But maybe I can't do time
Oh, we both know that's an awful line
But it doesn't make it wrong

You wanted it right
No out of mind and out of sight
No dirty bus and early flight
No seven days and forty nights

Yeah, you wanted a hit But tell me where's the point in it? You wanted the hit
But that's not what we do

And we won't be your babies anymore
We won't be your babies anymore
We won't be your babies
'Til you take us home

No, we won't be your babies anymore We won't be your babies anymore We can't be your babies
'Til you take us home

And we won't be your babies anymore
We won't be your babies anymore
We won't be your babies
'Til you take us home

No, we won't be your babies anymore We won't be your babies anymore We can't be your babies 'Til you take us home
