

And that all knowing stare was hard enough to wear
It's the reciprocated gloat that sticks in your throat
The box jellyfish sting it stops your heart before you know
But you stopped me deader than anything
And you stuck me deader than anything
You put into words like I never could You sing them through like I would just kill to Hit that nail on the head in three words everything is said
And you can strip a butt-end and put it back together again
In a perfect English accent with just one hand better than anything Now I boxed you in and then I boxed you in how I boxed you in And boxed you in boxed you in and boxed you in then I boxed you in
You were so wrapped up living in my loft
But you only got in because I had a tile off and Busy patting your own back walking forward looking back It's so beautiful to watch she wears a Rolex but looks good in a Swatch
And she stopped me deader than anything she stopped me deader than anything
Boxed you in then boxed you in and now that I boxed you in And boxed you in boxed you in then I boxed you in and I boxed you
in
You put into words like I never could
And you sing them through like I would just kill to Hit that nail on the head in three words everything is said
And you can strip a butt-end and put it back together again
And that all knowing stare was so hard enough to bear
With it's reciprocated gloat that sticks in your throat
The box jellyfish sting it stops your heart before you think
And you stopped me deader than anything
