

Princess

Lee DeWyze

Do you remember sleeping on my floor?
Talking about how things were before

And who will save you now?
And who can show you how?
To love again

The poison of your kiss
The waterfall of words from your lips

And who will save you now?
And who can show you how?
To love again

I tried to forget you
And not let you down
But the hardwood on the floor has melted
And you're wearing your crown

And who can save you now?
And who can show you how?
To love again