

Where You Lie

Lee DeWyze

Under your bed, where you lie your head
There's something waiting for you
An empty bedroom where you lie
And it's just too hard to try
You've done all you can do

And under your cover
That's where you'll find me
Waiting for you
And I have discovered
There's been another
If you've been untrue

And you speak without a word
In a voice I've never heard
I wonder who you are
And as the tears fall from your eyes
It should come as no surprise
How did it get that far?

And under your cover
That's where you'll find me
Waiting for you
And I have discovered
There's been another
If you've been untrue

If I told you a thousand times
There's probably a reason why
You're probably gonna cry
And if I told you a thousand times
There's probably a reason why
You're probably gonna cry

And under your cover
That's where you'll find me
Waiting for you
And I have discovered
There's been another
If you've been untrue

And under your cover
That's where you'll find me
Waiting for you
And I have discovered
There's been another
If you've been untrue

If I told you a thousand times
There's probably a reason why
Probably gonna cry, probably gonna cry
