

Who Would've Known

Lee DeWyze

(Verse)

She grew up in Southern California
Tried to make a living on her own
And then I came along and I took her from her mother
And now my heart is where she calls "her home"

(Verse)

Tried to give her everything I promised
But things don't always go just as we plan
We built our world and we tore it down
But I can't do this on my own because her heart is where I call
"my home"

(Chorus)

And who would've known that I'd ever get to see her in her down
And who would've thought that the two of us would ever give a v ow?
But just look at us now

(Verse)

Counting down the days, second guessing
It was full of clouds, my feet were cold
I packed my things and ran away
In fact didn't even really lost a day because her heart is wher e I call "my home"

(Verse)

So I guess I'll be honest with myself
I'm going down this road I never known
This road has turns and this road has hills
But I know I'm always gonna love her still because her heart is where I call "my home"

(Chorus)

And who would've known that I'd ever get to see her in her down
And who would've thought that the two of us would ever give a v ow?
But just look at us now
Just look at us now

(Verse)

She asked me what it was I love about her
Said everything and things I still don't know
She said I love you, I said I love you more
And every day's better than the one before because her heart is where I call "my home"

Oh because her heart is where I call "my home"
