

Western World

Lee Kernaghan

Your world is open plains, and the sounds of horses'
hooves, its campfires through
and embers and raining on tin roofs.
Your world is sealed with moon beams, beneath the starry sky, and all I wanna do is
be with you tonight.

I wanna feel your world around me, and breathe in every
sight, and ride with you
beneath the summer sky, I wanna feel your world
surround me if it's the only thing I Do.
I wanna break into your western world.

Your world is distant thunder, and wildflowers after rain, it's desolate and beautiful, its laughter and its pain.
But your world is keep your distance, should someone
break your heart,
and all I wanna do, is take you in my arms.

I wanna feel your world around me, and breathe in every
sight, and ride with you
beneath the summer sky, I wanna feel your world
surround me if it's the only thing I
Do.
I wanna break into your western world.

I wanna feel you around me, and breathe in your sight,
and lie with you, beneath the summer sky,
as long as these plains go on forever ill be loving you
I wanna break into, your western world.

Wanna break into you world, and be with you tonight, I wanna take you in my arms, beneath the summer sky.

Your western world
