Magdalena

Leo Sayer

Magdalena sits in her chair Speaking on the mass She talks in splice and splinters She laughs not breaking glass

She says that she would have me Spirit her away Stealing all my images Till there's nothin' left to say

Oh, Magdalena Nothing like the saint you are Your love is like a razor My heart is just a scar

Oh, Magdalena Nothing like the saint you are

She tells me that she wants me
Then she tells me not to bother
She tells me that I couldn't hold
A candle to her father

She knows that she's got me
When I start to rave about
She'll just smile and flash her eyes
And blow the candle out

Oh, Magdalena Oh, Magdalena Nothing like the saint you are

Magdalena lying there
Could make a dancer stumble
Make a preacher bite his tongue
And leave him with a mumble

And if you think I'm crazy, babe Or that I'm kiddin' you Just pay your dues and lose your blues When she gets her tongue in you

Oh, Magdalena Nothing like the saint you are Your love is like a razor My heart is just a scar

Well, I can't be forgotten and I can't be ignored You find me with my poems and my songs But if upon your journey, you're returning to L.A. Won't you take this little red-haired girl along?

Oh, Magdalena Nothing like a saint you are Your love is like a razor My heart is just a scar

Oh, Magdalena Nothing like a saint you are
