Take a Look

I`m a ragged man with a ragged heart But I wear my soul with pride You can see me on the road See my carrying my home And perhaps it seems that I`m all alone But I`m happy here inside You can keep your fancy dress `Cause to me it don`t impress

When I look in your face That camera smile looks out of place on you By the look in your eyes I can see you realize

So lend yourself to me I`ll show you what could be

Well I`ve come so far down so many roads I`ve experienced your pain You know that that`s a fact I can see the way you act But I learned to see what was wrong with me And I won`t go back again I know I`ve made mistakes But I also made the break

You surround yourself With secrets you are afraid to show to the world You convince yourself There`s no other way to go don`t you See the smile on my face Does it look so out of place

So lend yourself to me I`ll show you what could be (yes I will)

So many ways For you to spend the passing days

Loving and living or losing and using Life is forgiving so use it well Feeling revealing or wheeling and dealing Life`s not for stealing and time will tell

Take a look at your face Take a look at your face

You must surely know If man made heaven then man made hell So take a look at yourself What`s this secret you can`t tell me (when I look in your face I see that smile so out of place on you And by the look in your eyes I can see you realize, oh yeah)
