Fire In Your Belly

You've got a fire in your belly And swollen eyes staring back at me Still got my car parked in the alley In the garage You look much older when you're mad Your heart starts beating like a discotheque Got no regrets, except I wish you were here with me And on my own, I try so hard just to be content Got no regrets, except I wish you were here with me

And all my friends they agree with me And now my eyes they can see clearly There must be truth to what we're feeling It's a mirage You look much older when you're mad Your heart starts beating like a discotheque Got no regrets, except I wish you were here with me And on my own, I try so hard just to be content Got no regrets, except I wish you were here with me

And in time change my mind I hope Ooh

Got no regrets, except I wish you were here with me You look much older when you're mad Your heart starts beating like a discotheque Got no regrets, except I wish you were here with me hee
