

I never knew this would be hard
But now my heart is breaking down
I always thought I'd hear you call my name
Now I can't hear a sound

If there is a chance you know I will Relight the fire that we filled
(do you know)

Is there another way
There's still so much to say
And I don't even know where to begin

Don't tell me it's impossible
You said we were invincible
The situation's critical but I believe we can survive
Cause my heart cries, my souls dies every time we say goodbye
Don't tell me it's impossible to save this heart of mine

I never thought we'd be strangers after all that we'd become
I never knew my world would come crashing down
The moment you were gone

Is time running out for the things to change
Cause I can see light through all the rain

Don't say its over now
We'll make it work somehow
Without you I don't know where to begin

We got lost along the way
But when the night is over
We could live another day
Cause something's taking over
People change but love remains the same
