Impossible

I never knew this would be hard But now my heart is breaking down I always thought I'd hear you call my name Now I can't hear a sound

If there is a chance you know I will Relight the fire that we filled (do you know)

Is there another way There's still so much to say And I don't even know where to begin

Don't tell me it's impossible You said we were invincible The situation's critical but I believe we can survive Cause my heart cries, my souls dies every time we say goodbye Don't tell me it's impossible to save this heart of mine

I never thought we'd be strangers after all that we'd become I never knew my world would come crashing down The moment you were gone

Is time running out for the things to change Cause I can see light through all the rain

Don't say its over now We'll make it work somehow Without you I don't know where to begin

We got lost along the way But when the night is over We could live another day Cause something's taking over People change but love remains the same Liberty X
