

For The Flames Beneath Your Bridge, My Heart's Collapsed

Life In Your Way

Let's run and not look back
When yesterdays come calling we'll leave its falling prey worries and broken hopes
He believes in us so I'll try my best to be there for you to help you along
Because I have confidence in you too
Now you know my hearts prayer (that I see the world in you)
And I believe he who began a good work in you, will carry it through
The time is now
Relief from understanding encouragement and strength from truth
Hope is that which binds this together
You won't be weak (this is eternal) it will last forever
This friendship will last
Your bridge's burn is my heart's collapse and we know a cord of three strands is not easily broken
As time unfolds we'll see uncertainties take flight
It's clear that tomorrow's just a chance a chance that we cannot take
In time it will prevail it will stand the length of time
It will prevail