

Picture Start

Light This City

Beautiful gray masks the sky as the rain falls down And I wish that I could assure you of comfort and content,
But I'm still so far away
We have to take like as it comes, angel So fast and bittersweet and the only thing that I know for sure is we are not like them.
We've taken our feet off the ground and cleared the fog from our eyes
And we are not waiting for tomorrow to shine like the stars tonight
And no matter what it's what you've chosen to be and you will always be lovely in your light I watch memories in my head like a movie on a dirty screen,
and your lips seem so far away Only your warmth can thaw this frozen heart and make it swell again with life