

Death Cup

Like Moths to Flames

I've come this far without you,
I know you thought that I would let this die
You had your opportunity to take everything from my life,
And you expect me to believe,
In everything that you push me on

In years you'll thank me,
For everything that I did for you,
This time I'll try to remember why I ever trusted you

You lost the best thing to happen to you,
And I'm letting go,
I know that you won't remember me,
And I won't remember you

Now listen motherfucker,
This will be,
Everything that you dreamed it'd be,
But I can promise you one thing,
It won't be done without me

So tell me who you will turn to,
Knowing that I

I will watch every piece of your life fall apart,
Falling further apart,
I will watch every piece of your life falling further apart

You lost the best thing to happen to you,
And I'm letting go,
I know that you won't remember me,
And I won't remember you

If this is hopeless then I'll die with this world alone.