

Midnight In The Garden

Lily Kershaw

i woke to your goodbye the golden sun was in my eyes i thought i'd be first to leave and that i'd brought you life half-awake, your soul afraid to take it's midnight in the garden and this love you cannot fake it was in your eye there was no need to answer why we were born to run you said, "hey kid we had some fun." but now the dell has flown and there's no god to take us home

it's midnight in the garden
and i find myself alone the dust has settled since you left but my heart hasn't mended yet and the night promises to be long truth was unveiled by time they come from the same bloodline and what i did to be kept was wrong, wrong
