

Through The Cracks

Linda Davis

My first thought this morning, man, it sure is raining
I just washed the car, oh yeah, the oil needs changing
Bet it took ten seconds for you to cross my mind

Left the thought of you behind me when I pulled out of the driveway

By the time it caught me I was half way down the highway
I'm moving on without you just a little at a time

I've got a long, long way to go
But I'll get over you one day I know
I think a ray of hope has finally found me, here in the dark
I can see some light through the cracks of my broken heart

I just lost your memory somewhere in the traffic
Just for a moment the DJ had me laughing
And the sun peeked through the storm clouds in the sky

I've got a long, long way to go
But I'll get over you one day I know
I think a ray of hope has finally found me, here in the dark
I can see some light through the cracks of my broken heart
