In The Cool Dark Night

In the cool dark night, here on my pillow As the stars hang bright, over my head I can hear a breeze sing in the willow All the words of love we've said

And my heart pounds strong Under the covers And the moon casts long shadows ahead But I'm in a song only for lovers In the cool dark night instead

I can hear each promise we've never broken And each heartfelt moment we'd ever share Calling somehow Calling someway I will always be there

And I wonder if, just as they told me All the old cliches really come true Then I feel two arms reaching to hold me And I'm lost and found, and new In the cool dark night with you
