

Debris

Linkin Park

Listen, my blood feels like it's sitting still in my veins
My motivation is gone before you even came Today, yesterday it both seem the same
And no matter how I try I just can't change
Give me one reason I should go outside Everything will be the same no matter how what I try
Some people will live, some people will die
Some people will build their whole life on a lie
I used to blame you for the things that I thought you would say
So now I can't blame you for going away
Cause these memories of the blood beating under my skins
Repeating the same thoughts again and again

Again and again
Said we couldn't last long enough for be strong enough
Again and again
Said our voices weren't loud enough and we've had enough becaus e

We want our future back
We want our own mistakes
To take our own path
We want to do it again

Again and again
Said we couldn't last long enough or be strong enough
Again and again
Said our voices weren't loud enough and we've had enough becaus

We want our future back
We want our own mistakes
To take our own path
We want to do it again

Again and again
Said we couldn't last long enough or be strong enough
Again and again
Said our voices weren't loud enough and we've had enough becaus

We want our future back
We want our own mistakes
To take our own path
We want to do it again
