Walking on Thin Ice

Lisa Stansfield

You're walking on thin ice You'll have to pay the price You just don't listen You never take advice But I've got to warn you You'd better heed my mind While you walk on thin ice I'm right behind You're treading a tight-rope You know you're going to fall You just don't listen Think you can have it all But I've got to tell you You'd better heed my mind While you walk that tight-rope I'm right behind

You're walking on thin ice You'll have to pay the price You're treading a tight-rope You know you're going to fall You're running a fine line You've never got the time You're walking on thin ice You're walking on thin ice You're walking on thin ice You're running a fine line You're never got the time To find out what you're missing I tell you it's a crime So I've got to warn you You'd better heed my mind While you run the fine line I'm right behind

You're walking on thin ice You'll have to pay the price You just don't listen You never take advice But I've got to warn you You'd better heed my mind While you walk on thin ice I'm right behind You're treading a tight-rope You know you're going to fall You just don't listen Think you can have it all But I've got to tell you You'd better heed my mind While you walk that tight-rope I'm right behind

You're walking on thin ice Walking on, you're walking on thin ice Thin ice, you're walking on it Thin ice.
