

Woman Woman

Little Comets

Woman woman please believe me
I'm standing on a cliff edge can you see me
I've had my share of second chances
Open doors and wild romances
Now it better be right

Shadow will leave me I think will fall
A definite sadness will light every wall
But agony leaves me to both of my knees
I finish with higher lands and I stop saying please, please, please

'Cause a woman a woman please believe me
I'm standing on a cliff edge can you see me
'Cause I've had my share of second chances
Open doors and wild romances
Now it better be right yeah
Now it better be right yeah

Except I'll be chocking on Poor ambitions for the capture of love
Set up with the sky break on
Put nothing but a crack in the door
Caught in retrace still you punish me love me
I figured it was a sentiment fall
But now you caught up with the beacon try
But still you goes out to rid the severed in all

'Cause a woman a woman so close discreetly
The part of a wild will burn in briefly
You said you had your share of second chances
Open doors and wild romances
And it will never be right
And it will never be right
And it will never be right
And it will never be right
