Fell in love with her one summer night on a walk in the park I was comfortably sitting next to her, listening to her talk I fell in love with her one summer night, the first time I touc hed her hand

Things didn't work out as I planned

Everything can change so quickly you don't know at what to reac t feeling like this is the first time, every time she laughs with me and everything is going perfectly, you'd think I planned it this way

then I throw it all away

Homecoming queen how have you been?
Homecoming queen do you remember me?

Falling in and out, I let her down; I know I made some mistakes but some mistakes turn for the best if given time, so give it a day, or two

Homecoming queen how have you been? Homecoming queen do you remember me?

How did we let it end? is it as simple as: it was just what happened? Now I cannot pretend it was just by chance and I was right from the start of it

Homecoming queen how have you been? Homecoming queen do you remember me?
