Guardian Angel

Lonewolf

The serpent kisses our darkened souls Licks our wounds and tries to take control In a soulless world where evil grows so strong And unicorns lie bleeding on the ground

Out of the dark, into the light Curse of evil broken by the hands of fate

We fly

Healing my wounds and pain Leaving the darkness side by side

We fly

My guardian angel Together we ride the burning skies I tried to fight and to hold on But became weaker every day Today I see the world through new eyes Together we dream and walk our way