

I Know It's Coming Someday

Longwave

When all your strength is wearing thin
Hanging on until the end
I can give you what you're looking for

After the years you give in vain
Reaching out to feel again
I can give you what you're looking for

Well, I know its coming someday
In the pit of every morning
Well, I know it all too well
Know it all too well

And now the pain is kicking in
With every crack, it tears the skin
I can feel you when you're dying

Look back on the days you lived before
Look back on the nights and ask for more
When there's no one left
You'll see me there

Well, I know it's coming someday
In the glow of every evening
I know you could bring me back
You could bring me back

Yeah, well
I know it's coming someday
And it just might be tomorrow
Well, I know it all too well
Know it all too well

I know it all too well...
