

There's a Built-In Trouble Maker In Every Man

Loretta Lynn

There's a built-in trouble maker in every man
It's always been that way since time began
He lie to you make you think you're the only one
You'd better know how to keep him out of your mind
His words so sweet that he whispers in you ear
You'd better not believe everything you hear
So watch him close than love him all you can
Cause there's a built-in trouble maker in every man
Oh let me tell you somethin' here's what you gotta do
You'd better give him lovin' but he ain't been used to Hild him in the morning squeeze him tight at night
Do the little things he loves and he would treat you right
There's a built-in trouble maker in every man
It's always been that way since time began
He lie to you make you think you're the only one
Cause there's a built-in trouble maker in every man

Oh let me tell you somethin'...