Before you met me I was a fairy princess
I caught frogs and called them prince and made myself a queen.
Before you knew me I traveled around the world
I slept in castles and fell in love
because I was taught to dream.
I found mayonnaise bottles
and poked holes on top to capture Tinkerbell
And they were just fireflies to the untrained eye
but I could always tell.

I believe in fairytales and dreamers' dreams like bed-sheet-sails
And I believe in Peter Pan
And miracles and anything I can to get by.....
and fireflies.

Before I grew up I saw you on a cloud.

I could bless myself in your name and pat you on your wings.

Before I grew up I heard you whisper so loud

"Life is hard, and so is love, child,

Believe in all these things."

I found mayonnaise bottles
and poked holes on top to capture Tinkerbell.

And they were just fireflies to the untrained eye but I could always tell.

I believe in fairytales and dreamers' dreams like bed-sheet-sails
And I believe in Peter Pan
And miracles and anything I can to get by.....
and fireflies.

Before you met me I was a fairy princess I caught frogs and called them prince and made myself a queen.
