

My Love Follows You Where You Go

Lori McKenna

More wishes than a thousand hearts can count for you
More smiles than the Merry Go Round
The speed is standing to a bedtime story told
My love follows you where you go
More laughter than a kindergarten hour to play
One Sunday morning song that says it all
More summer than a California beach can hold
My love follows you where you go

The future like a promise
Your city of gold
Stamp it in your palm
Jesus in your soul
Seeing you stand there
Staring at the unknown
I won't pretend that it's not killing me
Watching you walk away slow
My love follows you where you go

Take forgiveness, take a prayer
Take a deepest breath
Take the answers in your heart
When you wake up and the world is cruel and cold
My love follows you where you go

The future like a promise
Your city of gold
Stamp it in your palm
Jesus in your soul
Seeing you stand there
Staring at the unknown
I won't pretend that it's not killing me
Watching you walk away slow
My love follows you where you go
Seeing you stand there
Staring at the unknown
My love follows you where you go

More freedom than the field of flowers in the wind
And more beauty than a morning after the rain
After stillness in the darkened, crooked road
My love follows you where you go
My love follows you where you go
My love follows you where you go
