Never Be Back

Lori McKenna

You and I for so many years It's just not that easy to pack up the tears and the pain And forget We just can't end it when I'm not through with it yet We build our walls and divide And it's so much simpler when we don't have to decide Who is right... as if it matters There's never any doors and we've burned all our letters

But it's wrong To live life without you It's gone, I know it's gone But I can't let it go Knowing it will never be back

You and I through so many fights And it's not about the one that we had the other night It's the ones we've never had When you close your eyes to me and pretend you're not mad

What if this is our one chance? What if it's a test And we failed? We failed

You and I for so many years It's just not that easy to pack up the tears and the pain And forget We just can't end it when I'm not through with it yet

And it's wrong To live life without you It's gone, I know it's gone But I can't let it go Knowing it will never Well I can't let it go Knowing it will never I can't let it go Knowing it will never be back Knowing it will never be back
