

Shouting

Lori McKenna

You should be able to sleep at night
You that I know used to have light in those eyes
When you breathe in, it shouldn't hurt
You should be living the life you deserve

I know the world just repeats itself
And I know you'll never feel any better just by shouting
You'll never change the weather shaking your fist at the sky
You'll never find an answer picking another fight
You'll never feel better just by shouting

Saying I love you shouldn't rip you apart
And hearing "I love you" should fill up your heart
Cause it ain't back home, no baby, it ain't that dark
And you don't have to stay with you think you are

I know that hurt won't just heal itself
And I know you'll never feel any better just by shouting
You'll never change the weather shaking your fist at the sky
You'll never find an answer picking another fight
You'll never feel better, you'll never feel better...

Scream till you lose your voice
Shout it out, make a little noise
Just whisper, just whisper
I swear I can hear you

You'll never feel any better just by shouting
You'll never change the weather just by shouting
You'll never find an answer, you'll never feel better
You'll never feel better just by shouting
