Behind His Last Goodbye

Lorrie Morgan

With a gentle hand he sweeps a strand of hair back from my eyes And sees me cry

And with a tenderness he'll press his lips to mine

And for a while he holds me tight

And oh he's careful not to close the door behind his last goodb ve

He leaves me breathless and he makes the woman in me come alive And I'm a fool who, who let's him in time and again don't ask me why

While the moments turn to precious memories

The questions go unanswered in my mind

And though he's careful not to burn the bridge behind his last goodbye

He wanders in and out my life

Through the shadows like a thief would in the night

Though he leaves but when he leaves

He leaves more than just a woman satisfied

And though he's careful not to close the door behind his last g oodbye

He leaves me breathless and he makes the woman in me come alive And I'm a fool who, who let's him in time and again don't ask me why

While the moments turn to precious memories

The questions go unanswered in my mind

And though he's careful not to burn the bridge behind his last goodbye

With a gentle hand he sweeps a strand of hair back from my eyes  $\mbox{\sc And}$  sees me cry

And with a tenderness he'll press his lips to mine And against my will he says goodbye
