Highlander (The One)

Lost Horizon

He's the one, pure in his heart Shining fair in the bliss never lost Noble grace, innocent faith Running throughout the fields immense Shouting free in the air again Dancing there with the wind

Sudden gust hit my face, burning rain tore the clouds From depth of the gloaming thunder came

On a mountain I saw it
When lightning reached out for him
Enchanting my eyes... in magical rhapsody
On a mountain I watched him
As power filled up his veins
Surrounded by dusk
As the rain from the heavens falling, falling...

And lone he might be on the ways of this world His sword, sole companion, always there

On a mountain I watched him
When proudly he swung his steel
Entracing my heart... in mystical harmony
On a mountain I saw it
When knowledge aroused his sense
Encircled by clouds
In the gales now enlightened reborn

Wish I could fly through the land beloved Not in my dream, nor by spell then bound Paradise's here in the fields immense Here is my life, not above! How could I leave this place...

Wish I could fly through the land beloved Not in my dream, nor by spell then bound Paradise's here in the fields immense If I return to this world here I will live again

Strenghtened by fury, I feel no fear Fire inside, it keeps me awake For no blind I ever shall bend! This is my law! This is my way!

Hey!

Insight's my power, truth is my breath
Free in my thoughts I always remain!
Choose to take a different path
Strong in the storms, pure through the waste

Stand up, Oh brothers over the world! Enemies are there and mostly the same We are a kind that never gives in! We are a flame born in the wind!

Hey!

Time's of no matter, it never was! World is the same, just different form Freedom is something one doesn't earn Always your own! Graced by the will!

He's the one, pure in his heart Shining fair in the pride never lost Noble grace, unbroken faith Running throughout the fields immense Shouting free in the air embraced Dancing there with the wind