

For Sure

Lostprophets

If I can walk 1000 miles a day I try,
To do it cause I don't know if you really say
I think I saw the sky tonight
Pushing through it feels alright and I just don't know who I want to be

And every time I see your face I laugh out loud
Acting hot your fitting in with all the crowd
And if I could I'd stop the time
And ask you for a clever line
And just because I know that you won't give it to me

It's raining hard again here now
That'll never change
Let's start a war
So who's to blame
When it ends it starts to rain down

At times I think that all I need is summer sun
Burning in my eyes and breaking through the trees
At times I feel my place is empty
It looks as though I never met me
But my smile does only show one side of me
And I can show you a little slice of everyone
Laughing in the dark I think your having fun
The sunlight in your face that time
Washes away all the grime
Makes me forget just how much I hate you tonight

It's raining hard again here now
That'll never change
Let's start a war
So who's to blame
When it ends it starts to rain down

Yeah Yeah Yeah . . .

Let's start a war
So who's to blame
When it starts to rain
Starts to rain
Starts to rain
Starts to rain
Starts to rain down