Turn Out the Light

Lou Reed

Lover, lover, why is there light in the itchy gitchy evening and it's dark outside And what's the difference between wrong and right wrong and right

Isn't it funny how pain goes away and then comes back another day The air feels very good today good today

Lover, lover, why is there light did you forget to turn off that light Well that's all right but it's way too bright way too bright

See the eagle above the hill the lake reflects and is so still The tension has gone from my will from my will

Moon on the mountain shining bright first there is dark and then there is light And sometimes the light is way too bright it's way to bright

Why don't you turn out the light oh, turn out the light Why don't you turn out the light turn out the light Turn out the light

Turn out the light