November 5

Love Spit Love

So where are we now A summer's end, autumn breeze The winter is at your sleeve

The leaves have all gone The windows are filled with frost If I don't come home, I'm lost

Mary, Mark and John Put on their shoes and all ran home And we're all here all alone Now, they've gone

There's ice on the pond The fishes have gone to sleep The water is cold and deep

Mary, Mark and John Put on their shoes and all ran home And we're all here all alone Now, they've gone

Summer's gone from this town I hope it all don't fall down Hope it all don't rain on me

Summer's gone from this town I hope it all don't rain down Hope it all don't fall on me

The sun is shining in my sleep I'm in the shade, so cool and green The blue sky's over me

Stop tossing and turning A spin of the bottle Said things that we've already said

So, where are we now? A summer's end, autumn breeze The winter is at your sleeve

Mary, Mark and John Put on their shoes and all ran home And we're all here, all alone

Through September October November December A New Year won't come 'til they've gone
