

This Is Home

Lucy Kaplansky

When I found you, I knew that you'd be mine
It wasn't my first kiss, it wasn't my first time
But it was the first time I gave my heart
When I wasn't just alone
I put it in your hands and I followed you home

Now I'm heading east on 80, wishing I could sleep
I see you lying in our bed, you're waiting up for me
And while I'm taking in the view, I'm wishing I could Give you, what I wanted to, you know I wanted to

And this is home, where I want to be
This is home, let's make a family
Baby you and me, baby you and me

She's lying on a bed in some crowded room
She's trying to sleep, there's not much else to do
The faces change around her, they speak
To her sometimes, she's getting used to being left behind

When we find her, we'll belong to her
We won't see her first smile, we won't hear her first word
But ours will be the first heart she holds in her hands
She can keep them beside her in her very own room

This is home, where I want to be
This is home, let's make a family
This is home, where I want to be
This is home, let's make a family
Baby you and me, baby you and me
