

Join The Club

Lucy Spraggan

Are you born a king or a joker,
or the jack of all trades
Are you the queen of someone's heart,
What is the value of your face?
Are you here to dig for diamonds,
Well bring along your spade.
Seems that life is just a gamble,
So just enjoy the game.

When the dice you keep on rolling takes away what is your life,
Don't give up, just try your luck, look a snake right in the eye.
Raise the stake and show some face, this round has just begun,
If you think outside the box there's no such thing as square on eye.

Are you born a king or a joker,
or the jack of all trades
Are you the queen of someone's heart,
What is the value of your face?
Are you here to dig for diamonds,
Well bring along your spade.
Seems that life is just a gamble,
So just enjoy the game.

And if there's someone standing on your left hand side, grab 'em,
Tell them everything will be alright, tell 'em.
If there's someone on your right hand side, grab 'em,
Tell them everything will be alright.

'Coz no matter which sleeve you wear your heart,
Whichever way you wear your crown,
Tomorrow is another day, to turn it all around,
I will, stop when I'm ready, I'll show everyone my cards,
But for now I'll keep on playing,
Even when the game gets hard.

Are you born a king or a joker,
Or the jack of all trades
Are you the queen of someone's heart,
What is the value of your face?
Are you here to dig for diamonds,
Well bring along your spade.
It seems that life is just a gamble,
So just enjoy the game.