Her Name

for years she didn't have a name she needs me to give it back to her neither does she have a face but I feel as though I know her well she's younger than me, but buried so deep what is she doin' in my dream? she waits for me to solve her mystery but how could I guess her name?

the distance between us fills the air and I don't remember she sheds a tear - it fills the air but I don't remember I hear her voice - it fills the air but I can't remember her name I don't remember her name breath of a dirty kid, bones of glass she's keeping mum - her belly full of hate consciously hiding from her past I can't leave her to her fate I'm the one to help she's bleeding - giving me the feeling hat it's my duty to dry her blood away how can I guess her name?

a heart covered by footprints and scars it's insane I can't believe what she's showin' me who's the one to blame? oh those memories repression is a way to survive suddenly I remember her name but I shudder to return it I don't wanna share it....

I don't wanna share it's mine no, I don't wanna share it It's mine I don't wanna share it's mine no, I don't wanna share it now I remember her name now I remember and I try....to forget again
