

I feel all black inside like coal
I wonder if you know?
An evil thrives inside my soul
the darkest place I know I rage at everyone I see Nocturnal fiends and all that be just keep away from me

I search the shadows of my inner being and see reflections of my twisted memories
The darker half of our nature our misery
Is this the monster we call madness?
Insanity?

I feel all black inside like coal
I wonder if you know?
an evil nourished by my soul
the darkest place I know

so far from who we are beneath our hidden scars so far from where we once were save me from this dark and twisted avatar lead me back to where we were

It scrapes the surface of this waking dream my own illusions leaving fissures in its seams
A pure distinction of hatred and jealousy
Is this the one fallen angel inside of me?

I feel all black inside like coal
how could you even know?