

Persona

Machinae Supremacy

Underneath the crushing weight of the world is someone searching for a purpose Play the part that you've been dealt by the herd mouth and nose beneath the surface

For all the times you held your tongue and rehearsed things you would say if ever brave enough to stand in their way
And all with lies we make our beds and sleep tucked away
Out of sight and out of mind we remain

And you start to paint a picture of the world just out of view Bring it with you as you dream and maybe you can wake up too

Do you believe in the world they made for you
Do you belong
or do you try to erase yourself just to pass as one of them,
a different day today
and that was then

Walk the streets with newfound eyes and see things from a whole new perspective Maybe not what you believed you'd be but something so much more addictive

Put on your new face and run run run through the night
And take on those who rape and kill and steal
And though the war path hardly knows your name all the same
The taste of blood between your teeth feels real

And you start to paint a picture
of the world just out of view
Bring it with you as you dream and

Do you belong
or do you try to
erase yourself just to pass as one of them,
a different day today
and that was then

You find it easier to play along but you are wrong
And that is why you need those emo songs
Why don't you get that you have killed yourself You're in hell
And it is your own fault for once as well

And you start to paint a picture

or do you try to
erase yourself just to pass as one of them,
a different day today
and that was then
