

The Second One

Machinae Supremacy

You know by now I'm not 'The One'
But I can be the one you need
What you believe
I will defeat all greater evils make them bleed

I'm so done with complacency
I've picked my allies and my enemy
Made my choice and now I stand with you
I'll see it through

I thrive on murder but a fight is still a fight and I suppose I might as well fight for what is right to make it up t his time
Suppress that darkness in me
What I once was and would be were it not for those who still ho ld on to me
Those who would call themselves allies of mine,
Brothers, Sisters and Friends of mine
Until the end of time

So what if I am not 'The One'?
Whatever difference does it make?
You still believe that I'll defeat them anyway
That I will break their hold on everything
I've picked my allies and my enemy
Made my choice and now I stand with you
I'll see it through

It fuels the fire in my eyes
Promise me that we will kill them all, no other justice will suffice

And now that you are here with me again
Where do we go?
I failed you, I lost one of them
I'm so so sorry

But you left me all alone