Downpour Of Emptiness

Machinemade God

Chasing the sunset, while my hand rotates to the left carving canyons into my wrist Sometines the screaming silence creates the back-drop for the next blood stained, painful kiss Four-thirty after midnight. The hours passed by in silence these moments I ache for to pass, creeping in black air upon the white walls as purple sheets enc ase our restless forms. Dark red rivers run deep, flooding mountain walls with this blo od Black clouds come up slowly as they cover me in whispers