Mad at Gravity

Find me
I'm falling
And fooling myself that it's flight
Imperfect
I plummet
And ponder
Pushed away on principle

Walk away and I stare
Would you stand me up again?
Wonder if I've said too much
And we'll never speak again

Forfeit
My future
For feelings of few far betweens
Mindless
Of merciful
Measures
Making ends preempt the means

I searched your eyes for an answer And shuddered at what I found there As my skin shrunk away from conclusion That you lack the strength to care

Walk away and I stare Would you stand me up again? Wonder if I've said too much And we'll never speak again

This is the way it has to be
That you would turn your back on me
And you and I should walk away

Walk away and I stare Would you stand me up again? Wonder if I've said too much And we'll never speak again
