

House Of Life

Mads Langer

You entered House of Life in the city of passion
I asked you if you wanted me to hold your bag
"Yes please" you said

While looking in my eyes you sent me into the skies

We'd never met but yet you invited me
For a glass of wine and a conversation about life and time
In the cab I touched your hand
And from that moment I seemed to understand

That you - you opened up my eyes
You made me see the day from a whole new perspective
I wonder where I used to stay

We didn't sleep that night
Anna said "goodnight sleep tight and don't let the bedbugs bite"
I was never in doubt - everything happened so naturally I used to get a mental block but you made me crawl out from under a rock

And you - you opened up my eyes
You made me see the day from a whole new perspective
I got carried away

I wonder if living from day to day should turn into weeks, months, years I just say: "wonder if..?"

You - you opened up my eyes
You made me see the day from a whole new perspective
Thank you is all I have to say
