

Say No More

Mads Langer

I am a believer, believing in you and me
But no one ever told me that I would be yours to keep
You are the winner, the winner of all I've got
But to be grateful and thank me is something that you forgot

Say no more, I've heard it all before
If you'll set me free, there's no place I'd rather be
But in your arms

Am I pretending, pretending to be the one
The one who's defending defending what we've become

Say no more, I've heard it all before
If you'll set me free, there's no place I'd rather be
But in your arms

There is a loser, a loser in every game
Beautiful stranger to thank me is not a shame

Say no more, I've heard it all before
If you'll set me free, there's no place I'd rather be
But in your arms