

Maybe Tonight

Maggie Rose

You may not remember the night that we met
But I've been tossing and turning and dreaming
About you, boy, ever since

Too long I've waited, yeah, I've played it cool
But that's overrated, here I go breaking the rules
I'll dial your number, you won't have to wonder
The way that I'm feeling

Maybe tonight I'll turn your head, yeah
And steal your breath, yeah, and spin your heart
I'll have you right where I want you
Ooh, in my arms, I won't disappoint

With a little bit of kissing
Make you see what you've been missing
I'll finally call you mine
Baby, maybe tonight

You know I've seen you get that look in your eyes
But like a gentleman you've been pretending
You're just a friend, playing it shy

It's harder to hide it when you come around
But you can't deny it, boy, I'm calling you out
Come and get closer, the guessing is over
I know what you're feeling

Maybe tonight I'll turn your head, yeah
And steal your breath, yeah and spin your heart
I'll have you right where I want you
Ooh, in my arms, I won't disappoint

With a little bit of kissing
Make you see what you've been missing
I'll finally call you mine
Baby, maybe tonight

Maybe tonight I'll turn your head
Steal your breath, yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah
I'll have you right where I want you
Ooh, in my arms, I won't disappoint

With a little bit of kissing
Make you see what you've been missing
I'll finally call you mine
Baby, maybe, baby, baby, maybe tonight
Baby, maybe, baby, baby, maybe tonight
