I think of the people that I used to know Lovers I can recall, where are they now? I wonder if anyone still feels the same? I do remember it all, just yesterday And all those sunny days always around Falling around me

I walked down the street where we all used to live Now there's nothing the same, I've seen it all And as the years have gone by I still know Still know the story

Sing me the song Everyone laughs All sing along Right to the back

When we were younger, much younger than now Life was a fast game, we played it somehow Now I'm much older and time passes by Maybe the truth was a lie When we were younger we lived for the day They seemed much longer but drifted away Now I'm much older, I don't have to try There's no one to whisper goodbye

Did all of the dreams that we wanted come true? Some did, clearly not all, maybe a few Grown up and gone separate ways to the end Leaving was friendly

I can't stop my feelings, they're starting to show Somewhere deep in my soul, I feel it grow Something keeps taking me back, I don't know Waiting to call me

Sing me the song Everyone laughs All sing along Right to the back

When we were younger, much younger than now Life was a fast game, we played it somehow Now I'm much older and time passes by Maybe the truth was a lie When we were younger we lived for the day They seemed much longer but drifted away Now I'm much older, I don't have to try There's no one to whisper goodbye

When we were younger, much younger than now Life was a fast game, we played it somehow Now I'm much older and time passes by Maybe the truth was a lie
Now I'm much older, I don't have to try
There's no one to whisper
Tistene's who to one to whisper goodbye