

Star Again

Maia Hirasawa

I don't know what you're staring at, your eyes are always open
You said you had a really bad day
And I don't know what to say to you

But close your eyes and try to see
I know it's hard for you to keep your mind relaxed
In this wounded world in this wounded soul of yours

I was standing at the balcony and you didn't know what to say to me
But you should know my friend, this is not the end
Although sometimes I just can't

I just can't close my eyes and try to sleep
A little bit more before this beautiful day arise
Just look at me
Cause I just can't see my own beauty

You were sinking lower soon at the bottom of the sea
And I was sinking lower soon at the bottom of the sea
Five, six, seven years can't imagine how it feels
