

Dark Lantern

Mandragora Scream

Never again will I taste in your passion this vain call that dies.

Never across sacrifice will I lose my dark guide.

Dazed in my dark and ephemeral wail that rapes
A cool light in a corpse-like haunted nightmare. I die.
Never in life (After tonight). Through my sighs (Don't you change). I will lie.

Always arising over mouldering, enlightened swear,
Never a light can die, Dark Lantern, darkling in light.

Waving this shine, overwhelmed by this whirl and your engraving
my gaze heavenwards in your face
Are greedy of grace and lust, grasping your heart. You mourn through rough rising of holy embraces.

Groaning through this tearflow, I feel, it's getting dark.

Always arising over mouldering, enlightened swear,
Maybe this light Blind lantern, in the silence is blinding my mind.

Always arising over mouldering, enlightened swear,
Never a light can die, Dark Lantern, darkling in light.

Always arising over mouldering, enlightened swear,
Never a light can die, Dark Lantern, darkling in light.
Always arising over mouldering, enlightened swear,
Maybe this lantern the silence cries (Don't you change) and lies.