

I'm Leaving You for Solitude

Manic Street Preachers

I'm leaving you for solitude
I left myself so long ago
I'm leaving you for solitude

the days that I once craved left me staggered and left me dazed stretched my fears over ageing skin helps the denial to begin I'm looking into the waves quiet moments are all that remains internalised all my thoughts of death I want to block out what was really said

I'm leaving you for solitude
I left myself so long ago
I'm leaving you for solitude
a place so rare and beautiful all I am taking are some blank empty pages some magazines & memories no watches and no jewelery

the days that I once craved
helps the denial to begin

I left myself so long ago
I'm leaving you for solitude
